Streszczenie rozprawy pt. „Ewolucja doktryny pacyfizmu Japonii w kontekście wyzwań geopolitycznych na Dalekim Wschodzie w XXI wieku” w języku angielskim.

Pacifism in Japan has been an important topic for years and appears, among others, in the context of the country's geopolitics. The reasons for this situation are the growing challenges and threats of the 21st century occurring in the immediate surrounding of the Japanese nation. They lead to a number of discussions between the members of the society and movements undertaken, for example, on the political scene. In turn, this includes the doctrine of pacifism under the constitution resulting in a number of restrictions that impede state action. Prime Minister Shinzo Abe understood this problem well. The work consists of five chapters, which were intended to facilitate its overarching objective. It was an analysis allowing to observe the changes in the face of Japanese pacifism over the years and to present the causes as well as the process itself in the current century due to the geopolitical challenges of the Far East. The dissertation also attempted to answer a number of questions related to the studied problem of contemporary international relations, which facilitated the formulation of the interpretation presented, among others, in the conclusion.
